Beckers Both to Blame, Says Judge

Properties Separation Suit Tried Before Judge Rosch Who Finds Marriage Was Contracted Without Consent to Results.

At the conclusion of the Stoll-Schroder case in the Supreme court Tuesday afternoon, the jurors were asked for the day and Judge Rosch took up a separation action brought by Lilly Becker against Earl Becker and Saugerties. The Beckers were married at Saugerties without the consent of the plaintiff's parents in 1919 and have one child. On April 1, 1923, they separated, Mrs. Becker going to New York city, where she obtained employment in the R. H. Macy store as a clerk, her child being left with her sister at White Plains for care.

Mrs. Becker brought the action for separation on the grounds of cruel treatment, claiming that her husband, who was employed as a chauffeur, came home in an intoxicated condition and abused her, striking her on several occasions and using abusive language. Improper conduct was also alleged. Mrs. Becker was but 17 years old when she was married although her husband testified that she gave her age as 18 when they secured the license. He was several years older.

Defendant claimed that he and his wife had several disagreements during their married life but that the trouble arose over her conduct. He claimed that she left home and visited the residence of Mrs. Ella Conyes at Mt. Marion and later at the Conyes home in Saugerties after she had moved there. He did not approve of these visits and testified that several times he had gone and brought his wife home and told her not to go there again. He claimed also that his wife would stay out late at night and several times came in an intoxicated condition. He also charged that she would inform him that she was going home to her mother or sisters and that she would not go there.

Alleging that he caught her one night at the Conyes home in Mt. Marion in company with a soldier, he stated that he grew suspicious of his wife and one time he told her he would be absent from home for a time, and then returned by the back way and saw her with one Peter McCabe at the Becker residence. He testified that he had entered the house without warning and that there was a fight. He struck McCabe and then McCabe and Mrs. Becker turned on him, he alleged that his wife used a stick of wood and beat him on the head. This was the day when his wife finally left home.

Her version of the matter differed. She claimed that her husband with others had been drinking some applejack and that her husband became intoxicated and was assisted to the house by Peter McCabe whom she did not know at that time.

The husband also testified that he saw his wife in the automobile of John Huber one night and that he hailed them and they failed to stop. He was picked up by another machine and arrived home before his wife and he saw Huber stop some distance from the Becker home and Mrs. Becker got out of the car and Huber drove rapidly away. Mrs. Becker claimed that Huber had picked her up on the road and given her a ride home as the night was stormy and the road wet and slushy.

When the testimony was in, Judge Rosch stated that from all appearances the case was a complex one, one in which both parties were to blame and one which it would be difficult to decide. Plaintiff, he said was a young woman who evidently believed she could travel about without regard for her husband and family, while the husband was a quick tempered young man who had married his wife with but little thought for the future and under unusual circumstances. However, he granted the separation to the plaintiff, but held that from the testimony he would not find that there had been any improper conduct by either the plaintiff or the defendant, but that Mr. Becker had been cruel to his wife.

As Becker is not at present working and has not been for some time, due to three operations which have been performed, and in view of another operation which he must undergo, Judge Rosch granted $2 a week alimony and directed that when the defendant was again working and able to provide more he would hear such an application. The application for additional alimony must be made to him and to him alone. If such application is made to another judge while he is still eligible to hear the application, he stated that his present decision would be set aside.

Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., appeared for plaintiff and Judge George F. Kaufman for the defendant.

Divorce Granted to Morgan.

An interlocutory decree of divorce has been granted plaintiff in the action brought for absolute divorce by Edward W. Morgan against Martha Blau Morgan by Justice G. D. B. Harbrouck. Plaintiff resides in Saugerties. The parties were married in Long Branch, N. J., May 17, 1917. They have not been living together for three years and a half. Surrogate George F. Kaufman is attorney for the plaintiff.

Two in Family Claim Money

An action to recover a deposit of money held by the Ulster County Savings Institution has been commenced in the supreme court by Victorine Hafacker against the Ulster County Savings Institution and Elizabeth E. Doerrer. The plaintiff claims the moneys on deposit belong to her, while the contention of the defendant, Elizabeth E. Doerrer, is that the money held by the bank belongs to her father, Godfried Hafacker. The bank has been served with a notice to hold the money during the settlement of the action, and therefore becomes a defendant.

The Hafackers do not live together. Mrs. Hafacker resides in Poughkeepsie, while her husband lives with his daughter at Mt. Marion. The sum involved is in the neighborhood of $4,000.

Benjamin Rowe and Andrew J. Cook appear for plaintiff and Philip Elting and Grant M. Brinnier for Saugerties, appear as attorneys of record for the defendants.

The case is being tried by Judge Rosch in the supreme court without a jury.

The moneys held were deposited in the bank first to the credit of the mother and later the account was changed to a joint account which included the daughter's name. Several large deposits were made through transfers from banks in Hoboken.

Arrested for Daring Robbery

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 14.—Harry Lasser, alias Jackson, arrested on a charge of binding and robbing Mrs. Howard Johnson of $9,000 worth of jewels in a hotel room, was positively identified today, according to the police, as the man who held up and robbed three other women in an attempt to take $15,000 worth of jewels from them.

Mrs. Johnson, according to police, identified Lasser as the man who in company with a woman, bound her in the Hotel Alamac and robbed her of jewelry worth $9,000.

Mrs. Johnson told police she was introduced to the couple by a friend. Monday she took tea with them at the Alamac and later was host to them on an automobile ride. On their return to the hotel they had two drinks, she said and then prepared to dine.

When she emerged from a bath room, she asserted the man seized her while the woman trussed her up.

Her version of the matter differed. She claimed that her husband with others had been drinking some applejack and that her husband became intoxicated and was assisted to the house by Peter McCabe whom she did not know at that time.

The husband also testified that he saw his wife in the automobile of John Huber one night and that he hailed them and they failed to stop. He was picked up by another machine and arrived home before his wife and he saw Huber stop some distance from the Becker home and Mrs. Becker got out of the car and Huber drove rapidly away. Mrs. Becker claimed that Huber had picked her up on the road and given her a ride home as the night was stormy and the road wet and slushy.

When the testimony was in, Judge Rosch stated that from all appearances the case was a complex one, one in which both parties were to blame and one which it would be difficult to decide. Milk and Water And Other Things

Discussed on Health Board Tuesday—Serum for Scarlet Fever—House on New Land Development Flooded—Selling Milk Without Permission—Other Matters.

Dr. Daniel Connelly, health officer of the city, reported to the board of health Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting that he had requested the state health department to send a man to Kingston to investigate a complaint received from a resident on the Wilbur land development, just over the city line in the town of Ulster, off Albany avenue.

When this plot of ground, which is partly within the city limits and partly in the town of Ulster, was developed and lots sold, what is known as "development streets" were run through the entire plot of land. Laying out one of these streets interfered with the natural drainage of the land and as the result one of the lot buyers who had erected a house just outside the city line had 16 inches of water in his cellar and an electric pump was trying to pump the cellar dry when the health officer was called to the house.

Dr. Connelly said that as the house was not inside the city limits he thought the best plan was to ask the state department to send a man here to make suggestions as to what should be done. The action taken in the matter by Dr. Connelly was approved by the board.

Mayor Morris Black presided at the meeting and Mrs. C. E. Harbrouck and Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey, the new members appointed to the board of health by the mayor, attended their first meeting Tuesday. The other members of the board present were Commissioners McBride, Kaufman, Huhne and Norwood.

The reports of the officers, which will be found elsewhere, were adopted.

Selling Milk Without Permit.

Dr. Connelly called attention to the fact that Jesse Dunham of Murphy's Lane, near the Washington avenue viaduct, had a milk route up town selling about 25 quarts a day without first obtaining permission from the board of health. He said that Dunham had said he did not need any permit and could not be stopped by the health board. The matter was referred to the corporation counsel to take steps at once in the matter.

To Inspect Schools.

The health officer also reported that the city schools had not been re-inspected by him as the education board had informed him that it would not be possible to carry out the recommendations made earlier in the year until the summer vacation. The matter of reinspection of schools will be taken up later in the year when the schools open after the summer vacation.

Serum for Scarlet Fever.

Dr. Connelly said there had been considerable scarlet fever reported in Kingston. During March there were ten cases; in April 15 cases, and ten cases so far reported this month. He was not in favor of closing the schools however.

There has been a new serum discovered to use in determining if one was immune from scarlet fever. It worked along similar lines as the Schick test for diphtheria. At Albany earlier in the month, four doctors had volunteered to have the serum injected in their arms to test it. Dr. Connelly was one of the physicians who volunteered and received "a shot" in the arm. He had had scarlet fever when 7 years old. Another physician who had had the disease was also injected, while two others who had never had the disease received an injection.

Dr. Connelly said that there had been no reaction in his case and that he was what is known as a negative. He would not know how the serum had reacted on the two physicians who had never had scarlet fever until later in the week when he went to Albany.

If the serum did what was claimed for it, it is likely that it will be used to control scarlet fever among children throughout the state.

Toler Complaints.

A communication was received regarding a toilet in a downtown building, but the complaint had been investigated and found to be without justification. Another complaint regarding a toilet uptown was receiving attention from the officials of the board.

Aid For Ellenville.

An item in the Health News, issued by the state health department, which stated that Ulster county had received a grant of $1,200 for a rural hospital, was brought to the attention of the board. It was said that the grant was for the hospital at Ellenville, and that where state aid was given the county had to raise a similar amount. The board voted to instruct the corporation counsel to take the matter up with the board of supervisors and request that Kingston be not assessed in this matter as the money should be raised outside of the city in the county.

Attend State Convention.

The board authorized the health officer, public health nurse and sanitary inspector to attend the annual state health convention at Saratoga Springs in June.

The board audited some bills and then adjourned.

Committee Adopt Bus Ordinance

A meeting of the Auto Bus Committee appointed some time ago by the common council to draft amendments to the ordinance regulating the bus lines, met at the city hall Tuesday evening to review the tentative draft of the ordinance amendments made by Corporation Counsel James Jenkins. Alderman Beichert, chairman of the committee, presided, others present being Alderman Fox, Smith, President Dempsey and corporation counsel.

It was decided to eliminate the section to impose a tax of $5 for each seat in a bus, and also the provision calling for a bond of $2,500 on each bus owner. The new state automobile law requires the giving of such a bond, which is applicable to this city, and therefore it was not deemed advisable to require the giving of two bonds.

The committee concluded to have a draft of the proposed ordinance made and present it to the common council at its next regular meeting for reading, and then have it referred to the following meeting when a public hearing will be held. It is proposed to have the ordinance go into effect on July 1, when the new state automobile law becomes effective.

A communication was read from Martin Jordan, owner of the New Paltz bus line, asking consent to transfer his license to Van Gonsig Brothers of Tilton, such consent having been given by the state public service commission. It was voted to give consent for the transfer if the new owners confer with Corporation Counsel Jenkins and agree to comply with all the city ordinances and automobile laws.

No Negligence in Child's Death

Jury Finds No Cause of Action in Suit Against Woman Who Started Bonfire at Binnewater.

A verdict of no cause of action was returned Tuesday afternoon by the jury which heard the evidence in the action brought by Mrs. Emma Stoll against Mary Schroder. The action was tried in supreme court before Judge Rosch.

Mrs. Stoll, as administratrix, brought an action to recover damages suffered when her daughter died as the result of burns sustained while she was playing in the Schroder yard at Binnewater. Plaintiff claimed that Mrs. Schroder had been negligent in providing a fire for the children to play about and then going away for a time. Mrs. Stoll's little eight year old daughter was severely burned when her clothing caught fire. Frank W. Brooks appeared for defendant.

Coolidge Tries To Remove Sting

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 14.—A final, eleventh hour attempt to compel congress to back-track on its action in setting Japanese exclusion for July 1 next, was made today by President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes.

The president summoned to the White House Representative Longworth, the Republican leader; Representative Garrett, the Democratic leader; Representative Garner, Democratic of Texas; Representative Snell of New York, chairman of the rules committee, and Chairman Albert Johnson of the house immigration committee for a general conference at which time the international gravity of the pending exclusion clause was fully gone into by Hughes.

It was reported that the president and Secretary Hughes had submitted a new proposal to the house leaders by which the sting could be taken out of the exclusion legislation so far as Japan is concerned, but this could not be confirmed from any of the conferees when the meeting broke up after an hour's session.

New Paltz Men Feast and Talk

Nearly One Hundred Members of Dutch Arms Enjoy Hospitality of Men's Club of Fair Street Reformed Church.

Music—Instrumental and choral—with renewal of old friendships and the forming of new ones, were the features of a gathering of more than 200 men in the lecture room of the Fair Street Reformed Church on Tuesday evening, the occasion being a visit by the Dutch Arms of New Paltz to the Men's Club of the Fair Street Church. After the program of speeches and singing, heavily laden tables were thoroughly and quickly relieved of their burden of regular he-man food, which ranged in voltage as high as Limburger cheese and green onions, and at midnight the procession of visitors was started on its way back to New Paltz.

There were 95 of the New Paltz men who made the trip and after parking their cars on the John street grounds they marched to the church in a body, where they were received and welcomed by the more than 100 members of the local class. Louis F. Coo, president of the local Men's Class, presided over a brief business session, at which it was decided to hold the annual outing of the class at the Golden Rule Inn, Ulster Park, and to accept the challenge of the Men's Class of the Clinton Avenue A. M. E. Church to play a game of baseball.

After a selection by the Dutch Arms Orchestra of New Paltz and an address on "Did Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler Know What He Was Talking About," by A. W. Hoffman, managing editor of The Freeman, Bruce Bennett of New Paltz was called to the post of toastmaster and a good time was had by all.

George Wicks of New Paltz, who is a brother to Arthur Wicks of this city, sang a solo, "Little Mother of Mine," and sang it so well that he was called back and sang "Sylvia." Without reporting to the technical language of a professional music critic (because the writer doesn't know any of it or what it means), it may be stated in plain English that in the opinion of all present, Mr. Wicks can sing.

Mr. Matteson, publicity agent for the New Paltz pageant, was introduced and proceeded to give an excellent sample of his wares, but as everything he said has either already been printed in The Freeman or will be printed before June 3, the date of the pageant, a report of the address would be mere repetition or anticipation. Mr. Matteson impressed everyone as being the man for the job and an expert and interesting publicist.

After a highly appreciated piano solo by Floyd McKinstry Judge L. C. Barnes spoke of the wonderful hospitality of Kingston, which had so impressed him that he not only recommended it to others but frequently sent men here to enjoy it—usually for a period of 30 days.

The Rev. J. Robert Halmshaw, pastor of the New Paltz A. M. E. Church, introduced as "The Little Minister," made an extremely witty talk on "Insiders and Outsiders." Illustrating it with an account of his experiences in Kingston, where, 12 years ago, he spent the first week of his life in America. His point was that the insiders, who because of ancestry, education, wealth, social position or driving a big automobile, shut themselves in from the Outsiders were missing a lot of life. Not only does the world need them, but they need the world.

Mr. Halmshaw also stated that too much energy is being wasted on hot air. Disagreement is good and in it lies safety, for it is often needed to restrain the energy of fanatics, but on big, basic things his advice was, "Shut your mouth and push."

There was music by the quartet, the double quartet sang "I cannot Sing the Old Songs," "Mother Grinding Coffee," and a New Paltz adaptation of "The Church in the Wildwood," which they sang as "The Church on the Walkhill." Like Mr. Wicks, they can sing.

President Harvey Gregory, New Paltz druggist and president of the Dutch Arms, expressed his pleasure and that of his fellow visitors in the evening's entertainment and invited the Kingstonians to visit New Paltz next fall as guests of the Dutch Arms.

The Rev. Dr. Frank E. Seeley made the closing address, thanking the visitors for coming, the speakers for speaking and stopping speaking, the musicians for playing and the singers for singing.

Of course Toastmaster Bennett, in his inimitable way, told numerous stories between the acts. A report of the evening would be incomplete without mention of the fact that William S. Eltinge as steward, head waiter, chief cook and bottle washer, officiated in a large white apron and was a big feature of the evening.

Claim Ku-Klux Backs McAdoo

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 14.—An informal, but nevertheless, close working agreement exists between the Underwood forces, the Smith forces, and the Raiston forces in the Democratic presidential fight, whereby they will make a common cause at New York for the insertion of an anti-Ku Klux Klan plank in the Democratic platform for 1924, this was learned today from political sources usually reliable.

It is, in effect, coalition against William Gibbs McAdoo that may have a significance far out-reaching the Klan issue by itself. The Klan issue has afforded the opponents of the McAdoo a common ground on which they can stand at the start of the convention, and once having found such a common ground it becomes easier to find again on other issues.

By a sort of mutual consent, the fight to have the platform declare against the Klan will be started and pushed at New York by the Underwood managers. The Smith contingent will support it for the reason that Governor Smith is a Catholic and the Raiston people will fall into line because the Klan issue is predominant in Indiana, and the Klan is boasting there that it just nominated a Republican candidate for governor.

Senator Underwood himself, is leaving the bulk of the fight against the Klan to his managers. He has spoken against the order on several occasions, but in the main he has permitted C. C. Carlin, his campaign director, to do the heavy firing in his name.

Carlin charged today that the Klan is busily engaged in "packing" state delegations for McAdoo. He backed it up by producing a letter purported to have been issued by Nathan Bedford E. Forrest, "Grand dragon, realm of Georgia, stating that it was Mr. McAdoo's desire that his friends elect Major Cohen," Democratic national committeeman from Georgia, and that if Major Cohen went to New York "the Klan's interests will be ably protected."

May Sustain Veto Of Bonus Bill

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 14.—The action of the senate in sustaining President Coolidge's veto on the Bonus pension bill encouraged the White House today to believe there is a possibility of the soldiers' bonus insurance bill also being defeated this season.

Administration supporters, at any rate, regarded the victory over the Bonus bill as "a hopeful sign" and they were urging the president today to speed up action on the bonus bill, which has now been on his desk several days.

It is possible that the veto message on the bonus may go to the capitol today, although it probably will be deferred until tomorrow. The president has until Friday midnight to act on the measure. After that it would become a law without his signature.

It is regarded as certain that the vote on the bonus over the president's expected veto will be a close one. The president was sustained on the Bonus bill by the narrowest of margins. One vote, cast by Senator Harold, Republican of Oklahoma, and then changed from "aye" to "no" after the roll call had been completed, decided the issue.

The Oklahoma senator was being soundly criticized and just as soundly praised today for his action.

More Education for M.E. Preachers

Plan Presented to Meet Present Day Needs for Broader Education of Preachers Dependent on Self Education.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Springfield, Mass., May 14.—Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, of the New England area, today recommended to the Methodist General Conference the adoption of a comprehensive and modern curriculum for the course of study for the ministry. The report was submitted to the conference by Bishop Hughes as chairman of the special commission which has made a study of the problem for eight years. The plan for courses of study does not meet the approval of the ultraconservative element in the conference but it is intended to meet the present-day needs for a broader education for those ministers who are obliged to depend upon methods of self education. In actual service the plan contemplates the adoption of the best methods in use in correspondence schools.

The commission finds that only twenty per cent of the Methodist clergy have both college and seminary training; eighteen per cent have not completed high school; more than one-half of the pastors are graduates of high schools and one-third, an eighth grade education or less. The proposed changes in the conference course of study are designed to aid those ministers who are obliged to get their education while preaching.

Bishop Charles B. Mitchell of St. Paul, Minnesota, Dr. David G. Downey, book editor of New York city and Dr. Allen MacRossie, educational director of the conference, are among the leading members of the commission.

Conference members were aroused by the publication of a "bluebook" containing charges against the Episcopal high officials and publications of the Methodist Church. J. F. Hanson, a Methodist layman, of Nebraska, and Jacob Fawcett, ex-justice of the Nebraska supreme court, are the authors. Among the high officials criticized are Bishop F. J. McConnell of Pittsburgh, Pa., Evans A. Worthy, a member of the commission on life service, and Harry F. Ward of Chicago, executive secretary of the church's social service program. The church government system is condemned and utterances of church leaders who are denounced as too liberal in their views, are objected. Total enrollment in the Methodist Sunday schools is now nearing the 5,000,000 mark. The report of the board of Sunday schools shows a total enrollment, including all departments and officers, of 4,929,460, a gain of 510,201 during the past four years.

Basket luncheon will be eaten in the Homesteads, opposite Memorial Field, from 12 o'clock noon to 1:30 p. m. Services at the Boyhood Rock will be held at 2 p. m., daylight saving time.

Strangers will be welcomed by the president, Dr. Frank Chapman of the New York Museum of Natural History.

WILL BROADCAST BUTLER SPEECH THURSDAY NIGHT

The address by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, on the subject of "The Relation of Government to Private Business Enterprises," to be delivered at the annual dinner of the National Industrial Conference Board on Thursday evening, May 15, will be broadcast direct from the Hotel Astor by station W. J. Y. of the Radio Corporation of America, commencing at 9:15 o'clock.

Dr. Butler's address, upon the general subject of the relation of and interference by the government in private business, will be extensive, and from the position which he holds in the public eye as a speaker as well as from the subject of the speech, his remarks should command the attention of the entire radio audience.

The program to be broadcast from the dinner, as arranged through the cooperation of the National Industrial Conference Board, includes only the address by Dr. Butler, which will probably last not longer than three-quarters of an hour.

The new Ulster County Girls' Scout camp, for which this benefit is to be given, is located at Walkkill, on the shores of an attractive little lake, and will afford many advantages which the council has never before included in the camp activities. It will open on July 5 and close on August 29, running a full eight weeks' season. The camp this year will be directed by Miss Anne Roos, local director of Ulster county, with a staff of capable assistants.

Roman Laws on Wills

The Romans were the first ancient people to actually enact the statutory laws regulating bequests of property. Under the earliest Roman laws wills were made and declared in public, were irrevocable and the testator therefore surrendered free and unrestricted sovereignty over property acquired by him prior to that date.

No person other than a patrician soldier on the eve of battle was permitted to dispose of his property by will. It was only at a later date that the privilege was extended to the common people.—Detroit News.

Aurora Borealis Theory

Protracted researches into the nature of the Aurora Borealis, known as the "Northern Lights," lead Professor Vegard of Christiania university to believe that its essential character is nitrogen, and say that the green line which is the chief feature of it consists of small particles of frozen nitrogen in the highest part of the atmosphere. This line appears when frozen nitrogen is exposed to electric rays.

Travels of a Needle

An irritation in the kneecap of a twelve-year-old girl of Durango, Colo., led to the removal of a steel needle which the child had swallowed when eight months old and which, for more than eleven years, has been wandering through her system.

Splitting the Fee

"I suppose you are getting a good fee, doctor, for attending the Smith boy? His father's rich?"
"Well, yes. Why?"
"Well, I hope you won't forget that my little Ted threw the brick that hit him."

We rather imagine when we eventually do get back to normalcy it is going to be like getting back to the old home town after living in a big city. It will seem mighty small and cramped.

"Maggie be my own wonderful one! Let me protect you from all harm, Maggie dear. I am drowning with love for you!" Rolling over in his sleep, he took his fingers out of the water pitcher—and went back to dreamland.

Give Him Time.

She (just introduced)—"Somehow you seem familiar."
He—Good heavens; I haven't started yet.

You can do almost anything you think you can do.

A Boston man has offered $50 for a nicer name than "old maid" to designate a spinster. How about bachmaie or scottman?

When a fool has nothing to say he is never satisfied until he says it.

Resolution in Webster.

"Believe me, old bean, I'm gonna cut out slank this year. My Jane's a highbrow and knows her groceries. Get me, Steve, sbr's got class, the train's caboose, the worm's ribs—boy, she's there. Hot dog! I've changed my grammar for her."

A colored school teacher is credited with the following. The word "pants" am an uncommon noun, because pants am singular at the top and plural at the bottom.

In naming a product you expect to advertise it is well to select some name that offers a suggestion. As example: "Uneda Biscuit" or "Dodge Automobiles."

David never drank heavily, as some charge. He was the chap who wrote "Joy cometh in the morning."

Play: Any kind of work you don't get paid for.

Now, ain't nature wonderful? In Indiana, an Indian, Henry Walkup Lane, married Daisy Glen. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Oakly Woods in the Pine Grove neighborhood.

They used to say, "Ask dad; he knows." Now it's, "Mother, ask your daughter, she can tell you."

The final "e" in blonde is silent. A man who married one says it is the only thing about her that is silent.

The old-fashioned alarm clock has put many a man on his feet.

Men are always growling, says a woman up-litter. So? Perhaps it's because the wimmen lead 'em a dog's life.

Judge—Your wife is suing for divorce on the good grounds of neglect! Why did you desert this woman?

Defendant—I ask you, judge, did you ever see a rat in a trap pay much attention to the piece of cheese that put him there?

Very Simple.

Little Girl (to grandfather)—Grandpa, why don't you grow hair on your head?

Grandpa—Well, why doesn't grass grow up on a busy street?

Little Girl—Oh, I see; it can't get up through the concrete.

Heart Is Injured by America's Swift Pace

More deaths occur today in America from various diseases of the heart than from any other cause, says the New York Times. A few years ago tuberculosis headed the list, but while the number of deaths from this cause have been reduced, those from heart trouble of various kinds have increased.

The decrease in the ravages of tuberculosis is explained by the great educational campaigns carried on throughout the country for combating the evil and to improved sanitary conditions.

The increase in heart troubles is attributed largely to the increasing pace of modern life in America. A decade ago the death rate from tuberculosis was 108.2 per 100,000. At that time the death rate from heart troubles was 140.9. A recent survey showed that while the rate for tuberculosis has been reduced to 114.2, that for heart disease has jumped to 141.9.

The highest fatality from heart disease has been found in Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts in the order named. The lowest death rate is reported in Montana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and Nebraska. It is increasing in New York.

Want Democrats To See Mountains

Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Association Trying to Interest Delegates to National Democratic Convention in New York to Visit This Region.

The Catskill-Shawangunk Mountain Association is making plans to interest delegates to the national democratic convention which opens in New York city on June 24, to visit the Catskill-Shawangunk region before leaving for their homes.

A meeting called by Clarence W. Peters, manager of the association, and attended by representatives of several transportation companies, was held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Broadway Tuesday afternoon.

Among those who attended were Harry M. Pinger, of the Saugerties-New York Steamboat Company; R. W. Walquist, of the Hudson River Line; Division Passenger Agent Miller, of the New York Central; and Arthur C. Tongue, of the Ulster and Delaware Railroad.

It is planned to distribute a large amount of literature of the summer resort region at the convention and at the hotels where the delegates will be registered, and also at the headquarters of the several reception committees.

It is expected that fully 250,000 delegates, alternates and visitors to the national convention will be in New York at that time in June and every effort will be made to interest them in the Catskill-Shawangunk summer resorts.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

At the Keeney Theater this evening, the feature photoplay, "Loretta Lombard," will be shown for the last time. It is a screen adaptation of Kathleen Norris's best seller of the same name. At the performance the first two days the picture pleased large audiences.

At the Kingston Opera House the Kingston Minstrel Follies is pleasing large numbers. The offerings of the local talent will again be displayed this evening. The feature picture is "In Search of a Thrill."

At the Auditorium tonight a George Fitzmaurice production, Pola Negri in one of the screen's most dramatic stories, "The Cheat." Pola Negri acts as a lovely heroine of a modern, romantic drama with a happy ending.

The show at the Orpheum continues to attract large audiences daily. The feature act on the bill is Dardanel Reynolds, the human fly. Crowds watched him climb the building Tuesday evening when he climbed Gregory & Co's building. This evening he will scale Stock & Cordis's building, downtown, at 5:15. "Judgment of the Storm," the picture will also have its last presentation today. Tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, the feature offering is Thomas Meighan in his latest Paramount picture, "Pied Piper Malone." This feature had a long run in New York city.

A LITTLE TALK ON THRIFT

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift

In a laudable effort to teach its employees the value of economy, the Bethlehem Steel Corporation has issued a bulletin pointing out how items usually considered unimportant cost the corporation many thousands of dollars each year and thereby affect the progress of the workers themselves. In calling attention to various items of needless waste, the point is made that "waste is one of the things that is preventable without hardship. In the long run it is not always the other fellow who foots the bill. Waste and wages are both paid from the same pocketbook."

The co-relationship of waste elimination and individual self-interest are often not realized. Yet in every business organization the success of the company or firm means greater success for each individual on its payroll.

Eliminating waste in trivial matters not only contributes to the direct financial advantage of the company, but, what is of still greater importance, it lifts morale and heightens efficiency.

The Bethlehem Corporation's bulletin points out some of the items often wasted and what the company paid for these items last year, as follows: electric light bulbs, $200,000; shovels, $30,000; windows, $25,855; brooms, $17,255; paper towels, $14,780; soap, $8,161. The same bulletin states that a wasted shovelful of coal means the loss of 4c; a piece of tin plate 6c; 100 pounds 4x4 billet, $3.00; a brick 5c to 33c.

Thrift does not mean merely saving one's money. It means also economy of the trivial materials of routine life. To waste these, even though the amount involved is very small, is unjust to others as well as to ourselves.

Bridal Superstition.

According to ancient superstition, it is unlucky for a bride to choose bridesmaids who are not younger than herself.

Many Theories as to the Creation of Woman

Woman's first appearance has been a popular subject of legends. The Phoenician myth of creation is found in the story of Pygmalion and Galatea. There the first woman was carved out of ivory by the first man, and then endowed with life by Aphrodite. The Greek theory of the creation of woman, according to Hesiod, was that Zeus, as a cruel jest, ordered Vulcan to make woman out of clay, and then induced the various gods and goddesses to invest the clay doll with all their worst qualities, the result being a lovely thing, with a witchery of mien, refined craft, eager passion, love of dress, treacherous manners and shameless mien. The Scandinavians say that as Odin, Vill and Ve, the three sons of Bor, were walking along the sea beach, they found two sticks of wood, one of ash and one of elm. Sitting down, the gods shaped man and woman out of these sticks, whitening the woman from the elm and calling her Erma. One of the strangest stories concerning the origin of woman is told by the Madagascarenes. In so far as the creation of man goes, the legend is not unlike that related by Moses, only that the fall came before Eve had arrived. After the man had eaten the forbidden fruit he became affected with a boil on the leg, out of which, when it burst, came a beautiful girl. The man's first thought was to throw her to the pigs; but he was commanded by a messenger from heaven to let her play among the grass and flowers until she was of marriageable age, then to make her his wife. He did so, called her Baboura, and she became the mother of all races of men. The American Indian myths relating to Adam and Eve are numerous and entertaining. Some traditions trace back our first parents to white and red maize; another is that man, searching for a wife, was given the daughter of the king of the muskrats, who, on being dipped into the waters of a neighboring lake, became a woman.

Many Languages in India

There are many races in India, and the individuals are as different as a German is from a Frenchman, and as easy to recognize as belonging to different races, says Asia Magazine. Some women wear skirts, some wear trousers. Some men wear trousers, some wear skirts. And some wear neither skirts nor trousers. They simply wear a piece of cloth wound about their bodies. As different and numerous as are their costumes, religions, customs and races, so are the languages. The official census records 220 different dialects. It also shows that over 100 different languages are spoken in India. These are not dialects. They are absolutely differing tongues—as different as English and French. And all these more than five-score languages are spoken in one country.

Feminine Independence

"Andy," Post sports editor, told this one "confidentially." Out on the Post golf course at Camp Logan recently, an eminent divine and his wife were valiantly putting and chasing the little white ball. The lady drove with vigor, missed—and said a naughty word. "Tut, tut, my dear!" expostulated the churchman. "Tut, tut, hell—hell—hello," faltered the wife. "I'm doing the zolting and I'll tend to my own cussing."—Houston Post.

RICH GERMANS CROWD ITALY.

Numerous American travellers having reported the hotels and railways of Italy as filled with Germans, all spending money lavishly, at a time when the people of the United States are urged to contribute money for destitute children in Germany, one American, B. S. Comstock of Princeton, came forward "in the interest of justice" with the explanation that German-speaking persons in Italy—Viennese, German-Swiss and often Hollanders—are mistaken by American travellers for Germans, who are in fact much less numerous in Italy than is supposed. In response to this defense Charles R. Williams of Cromwell, Conn., who says he has spent many years in Italy, gives official figures in the New York Times to show that the popular impression has ample basis—as follows:

The day after our Congress voted $10,000,000 to "starving German babies" the Corriere della Sera, Italy's leading newspaper, stated editorially that there were 70,000 Germans in Italy that day. As every stranger arriving is immediately reported to police headquarters of whatever city or town he goes to, with a card giving his vital statistics over his own signature, these figures are given out weekly and are not only authoritative but accurate. In Naples an office of the Society of Hotel Keepers told me the daily expenditure of the 5,000 Germans in Naples at that time averaged 500 lire per person—about $22.50—and during five weeks at the Hotel Excelsior I saw nearly every German paying out American banknotes with a liberality and bravado quite new in that race. Hindenburg's nephew addressed a group of English-speaking tourists on the Capri boat so that he could inform them that the whole talk of poverty in Germany was camouflage "to fool the world." For the first time in a long life I saw thousand dollar bank notes flashed like one-dollar bills, and know of one which was a clever counterfeit, "made in Germany," and was told by an American government official that there were many in circulation in Italy. I also write you in the interest of justice.

TAMMANY'S TROUBLES.

Rarely has the passing of a political leader caused more concern than that of Charles F. Murphy, the undisputed boss of Tammany, the word "boss" being used with no thought of belittling the standing of Mr. Murphy. He was the absolute boss, nevertheless, and what he said was law. There was no higher "court" in Tammany than that over which he presided, and his decisions were final. Political history offers few, if any, reversals as to what, in his opinion, was best and what was not best for Tammany.

It has been said again and again that leaders are not made by appointment or resolution. Some person can be selected to fill a vacancy for the time being, but to think of electing a man to actually assume the position made vacant by the death of Mr. Murphy is out of the question. The members of Tammany are convinced of this and a successor is not determined just because a committee decides to temporarily accept suggestions of some particular member. What is done now must be ratified later. If the elected successor makes good he will continue, and if he fails all the resolutions ever adopted will not keep him in the leadership.

The absence of Mr. Murphy is a severe loss to Governor Smith and it is becoming more and more apparent. While few really looked upon the governor as being a formidable candidate for the presidential nomination, nevertheless what chance he had of being the Democratic standard-bearer has been lessened by more than half. To name somebody by resolution who could acquire between now and the time of the convention the influence and points of contact held by Mr. Murphy is not to be given a thought. It took Mr. Murphy twenty years.

Tammany is in sore straits and the gloom inside of the wigwam, even if it is concealed somewhat, is only what might be expected. The ambition of Governor Smith is punctured and the advertising he was getting has been cut in two. With Mr. Murphy's help the governor had a "look in" on national affairs, but now few can see where he will get any greater recognition than the privilege to run to succeed himself. Tammany is in trouble and nobody knows the extent of it more accurately than Governor Smith.

To the man on the street it would appear as if President Coolidge were moving along all right without getting into fights with anybody. Others are talking about wars and rumors of wars but the president seems to be meeting things as they come and disposing of them intelligently. There is one thing that can be said of President Coolidge without fear of contradiction, he does not scare easily. The president may not be perfect, no man is, but it is certain that he won't be charged with going off half cocked. In other words he uses his brains and has brains to use.

Most physicians are friendly toward insurance companies because the idea of insurance is so sound.

A number of people banding themselves together and paying according to their age and health into a general fund to be distributed at times of need.

But there is some unfairness just the same in some of the questions asked regarding the heart.

Is there any murmur? Is the heart regular? Has the applicant ever fainted?

If the answer is in the affirmative the applicant may not get his insurance, and may on account of the general system in vogue, be rejected by other companies as well.

Now this is not right, and the war has shown the folly of rejecting a man whose heart was irregular or had a slight murmur. Also that one could faint, and still not have heart disease.

This matter of being rejected is not the only injustice done the applicant. The very thought that he has some form of heart disease is often the means of making him a neurotic. He begins to worry about it, becomes depressed in spirit, and will not take the slightest form of exercise for fear of injuring his "diseased heart," which might cause him to die suddenly.

The war has demonstrated that one can have true murmurs, irregularity and enlargement of the heart, without interfering with the ordinary life of the individual or the actual duration of that life.

You might well ask "How am I to know just what my heart can stand? Well your heart is a muscle very similar to the other muscles in the body. A muscle has only one job in the body and that is to work on contract.

How is it doing its job? Despite the irregularity and the murmur is it doing its work? Can you do the ordinary amount of walking, climbing stairs, and so forth without getting out of breath?

Do your hands and feet keep fairly warm?

After the ordinary exertion of the day are your feet and ankles free from swelling? If you seem to go about your work or play, free from distress such as dizziness, faintness, and shortness of breath there should not be much cause for worry. If you can do all the ordinary things other people do, or that you have always done, don't let the matter of your heart get on your nerves.

Consult a heart specialist if you wish, one who specializes on the heart only. He will likely reassure you.

Westerners Are Ugly in Eyes of Japanese

It has happened more than once that a Japanese baby has howled and shrieked in terror at the sight of a beautiful, fair-haired, blue-eyed girl. This may strike you as comic or tragic, but it is a fact. Japanese standards of feminine beauty are different from ours.

A Japanese beauty must have straight, black hair. Should she have the misfortune to possess hair with the slightest tendency to wave, she will take endless trouble to straighten it out—as much trouble, in fact, as an American girl would take to produce the opposite effect.

Her face should be narrow and long; her forehead high and narrow at the middle, but wider and lower at the sides, so that it corresponds as nearly as possible to the outline of Fuji, the mountain beloved by Japanese artists. Her eyes, of course, must be long and narrow, slanting upward at the corners; the eyebrows were shadows, and high above the eyes; her complexion ivory-white with little or no color. The Japanese girl carries her head and shoulders slightly forward, and inclines her body forward from the waist. She walks with short, quick steps, her toes turned in and her feet hardly lifted from the ground. To walk otherwise would be immodest—Philadelphia Inquirer.

What Men Will Wear in Hats

Thursday, May 15, is the official straw hat opening day for men. A great deal of interest is created throughout the country on this day, when it is considered that the straw hat is the only article of men's apparel that causes a great majority of men in America to change over night.

In some places mayors have recognized this fact by sending forth a special announcement that all men try and wear their straw hats on May 15. Kingston will be one of the cities that ought to be well represented on that day.

The hat that is attracting the most attention at the present time is the brown hue straw, which gives the hat a sun-burned effect. Then, there is the narrow brim hat which is popular on Wall street, Kingston, as it is on Broadway, New York.

For the older man, the brim is always a little larger, the young man demanding the narrower brim. There will be many fancy bands worn this season by many of the young people.

Of course, the smart hat for evening wear, with the dinner jacket, still remains the same conventional China split. This hat is trimmed with a black silk taffeta band, which has the very striking combination with the silk tie and silk facing of the tuxedo.

For golf, men are demanding the Lehigh hat in tan and natural colors, with the brim turned down in front or all around.

Rough straws will be popular with the young men and the brim with three, four and five thicknesses, giving it a very unusual but smart appearance. While last year the dark straws predominated, 90 per cent of the hats made this season are in the bleached variety. There will be more white hats than dark ones. The Panama and Banquet will remain as ever, the Chapeau de Luxe.

Ulster County Gets $1,350.

The Health News, published by the state health department, says that the 1924 legislature, late in the session, appropriated the sum of $36,918.85 to cover grants of state aid to counties in accordance with the provisions of the laws of 1923. Among the grants made is one to Ulster county toward establishment and equipment of a rural general hospital of $1,350.

The hand that rocks the cradle—
by The Veteran Motorist

THE other day, driving down from Albany, I had a flat at Red Hook, and, out of idle curiosity, I began to remark, as they drove up to the garage for a fill of Socony, the number of women who were driving their own cars, not only taking a pleasure ride for themselves, but giving the whole family a needed airing. And there was a really surprising number of young mothers leaving the cares of home behind, but not the baby—baby in his new-fangled auto cradle, and mother, fresh and alert; taking in the scenery, and both obviously having a good time.

To my mind it is almost instinctive for careful mothers who drive their own cars to select Socony Gasoline and Motor Oil, and especially, almost by instinct, to count upon the constant courtesy and the ever-present readiness to help in an emergency, which is characteristic of all Socony employees.

After all, mothers are the same in everything they do. They know what's best for the baby, and for the same reason they are quick to select and prescribe Socony Gasoline and Socony Motor Oil as a balanced diet for the family car. And they know the dependence of Socony service—courtesy and helpfulness anywhere and everywhere along the road.

Safeguarding the Crossing

One traction company in New Jersey, realizing the danger to the motoring public of grade crossings, has evolved a sign system of warning at each crossing. Suspended across the road and directly above each crossing is a large board with several electric lights. This board bears the following message: "Danger! Look Out for Locomotive! Stop When Lighted!"

Ancient Thumb Rings

Imperial Rome permitted only the senators and nobles to wear golden rings. The common folk had to be satisfied with iron rings. At the time when luxury reached its climax in Rome, rings were often worn on the thumb many of them of a ridiculous size. One of these thumb rings, bearing an intaglio of the bust of Emperor Plotinus, was fully 2 1/2 inches broad.

Formidable Weapon.

The bolo is the national weapon of the Philippines. The blade is about 18 inches in length by nearly 3 inches in width at its broadest dimension. It tapers from the middle towards the shaft as well as toward the point, making it strongly resemble the ancient short sword. It is not double edged, however, but tapers from a thick back to an extremely keen edge. The scabbard of the bolo is made of native wood with rough outlined designs carved upon it. The whole weapon is much more beautiful in outline and more formidable than the Cuban machete.

Never forget that you are the descendants of men who ate up the fire that was to burn them, and digested it and turned it into noble strength; that drank up the sea that was to have drowned them, and came through ever thickening danger gathering strength with exercise, and being made out common men, heroic and illustrious characters.—Joseph Parker.

Also Helps Heartache.

We read just now that in ancient times kissing a pretty girl was a cure for the toothache. It is difficult to improve on some of those old-time remedies.—Boston Transcript.

Shakespeare's Vocabulary Rivalled.

Probably no living poet has a more extensive vocabulary than Gabriele d'Annunzio, who is to visit Paris in the spring of this year. "Most people," he once said, "use only 800 words. I employ 15,000, which I cull from different volumes, some taken from an old book on agriculture, some from an old translation of Ovid, others from Machiavelli's works. Old Italian authors are my daily bread."

Art.

Art, as far as it is able, follows nature, as a pupil imitates its master; thus your art must be as a mere God's grandchild.—Dante.

The Motorist's Boy.

We remarked the other day that even the children are keeping their metaphors up to date and gave an illustration. Apropos this has been sent to us: "Seeing a dachshund for the first time a little fellow cried out, 'Oh, look, ma! Look at the long wheelbase that dog has.'—Boston Transcript.

Greatness.

One is never done with knowing the greatest men or the greatest works of art—they carry on and on, and at the last you feel that you are only beginning.—T. R. Glover.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

Waiting

There had been others like Ruth. There are many others like her now. But it is of Ruth that this story is about.

Ruth was one of those who was always waiting for something better and more exciting to turn up.

If she went flower-gathering in the woods and along the country roads she seldom came home with many flowers. She always kept moving from one place to another thinking that the next flowers would be better than the last. Sometimes she would be out a whole afternoon and by the end of the afternoon she would discover, when it was time to come home, that she had really passed by the best of the flowers.

When she went to parties she waited for more interesting games and she never had a very good time.

She sat in a corner and didn't want to play anything that was being played.

And when they asked her what she would like to play she would say:

"I don't care."

Yet she wouldn't play any of the games suggested and wouldn't make any suggestions herself.

She never particularly enjoyed any presents she received because as soon as she received them she was wondering what she would get next—and so didn't get any pleasure out of what had been given to her.

Ruth wasn't very well liked by her playmates.

One night Peter Gnome had asked the Dreamland King if he could call on Ruth and the Dreamland King had set back on Sleepy Time Cloud and had said:

"Indeed, you may, Peter Gnome. 'I'd be delighted to have you do so.' So Peter Gnome went a-calling.

"Good evening, Ruth," he said as he perched himself on the end of her

"Who Are They?" Asked Ruth.

bed. "I'm wondering if you would like to go and see some friends of mine this evening."

"I don't care," said Ruth.

"Well, you don't sound very enthusiastic," said Peter Gnome, "but still they're expecting you, so we'd better be off."

Ruth slipped her best wrapper over her and put on her pretty pink slippers and off she went with Peter Gnome.

They went for miles. It seemed, through a long, long tunnel which was lighted by rows of tiny red electric lights.

At last they came out upon a big opening and there were a lot of little creatures who looked very cross. They looked rather old, though they did not seem very big.

"They all looked at Ruth, but none of them spoke to her."

"Who are they?" asked Ruth. She was beginning to feel frightened.

"They're the ones who're waiting—waiting for something to turn up. They're the little grouchy people who won't play, who can't enjoy themselves—just as there are people of that sort in the real world."

"They could leave here any time they wanted to do so, but they've lost the way of knowing how to enjoy things and they don't care to make the effort to find it."

"They think something may happen that will be very nice. But if it did, they wouldn't recognize it, for they'd be seeing if something beyond wouldn't be nicer."

"Oh, take me away," cried Ruth. And Peter Gnome did as she asked.

Ruth didn't belong to those "waiting" any more. The sight of those wretched little Gnomes and their sad, tired, old faces were too much for her!

Cause of Thunder

Thunder is the sound following a flash of lightning. The discharge of electricity heats the air and produces a sudden expansion and compression. This is followed by a violent rush of air into the partial vacuum thus produced. When the path of the lightning is short and straight there is a sharp clap like an explosion, but when the path is long and zigzag there is a rattling sound. The rumbling, rolling sound is due to echoes among the clouds.

Not Doing at All

"Well, Ruth," said the little girl's father, "what have you been doing all day?"

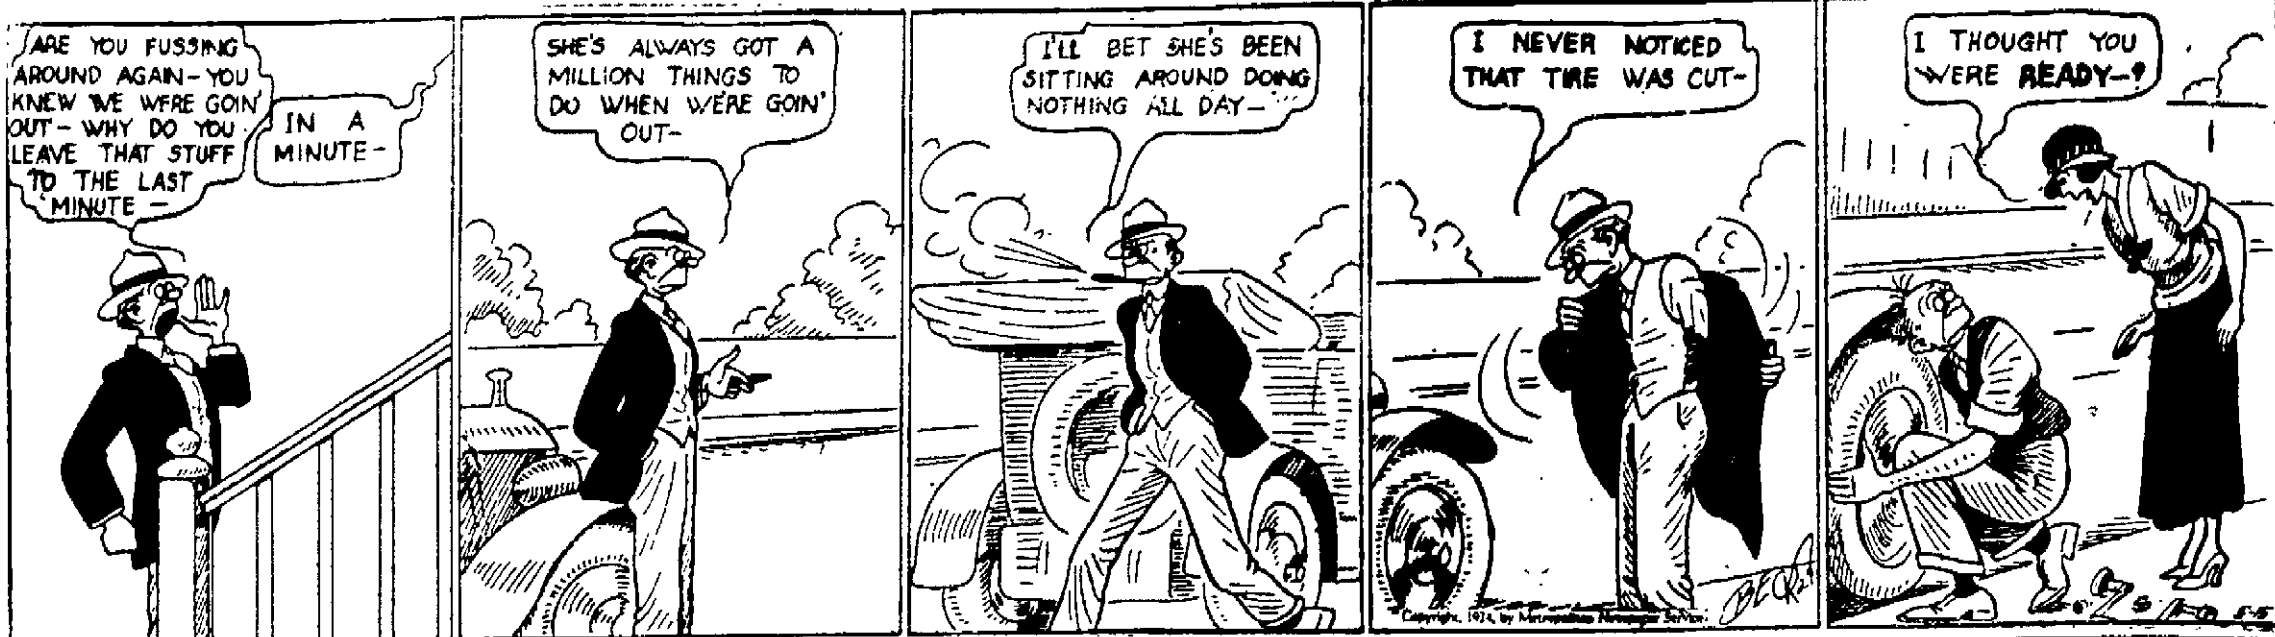

"I haven't been doing at all," was the reply. "I've been doing most of the time."

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

A discarded safety razor blade is a fine thing to scrape paint from windows as well as to use to rip with.

Corn which refuses to pop will often do so if sprinkled lightly with water before popping.

When roasting pork, slit it at intervals and insert pieces of tart apple.

This not only improves the flavor of the meat but gives a delicious flavor to the gravy.

When salting almonds use olive oil instead of butter. It gives them a very delightful flavor.

Candy animals may be made from the celluloid forms to be bought at the ten-cent store. Separate the animal with a sharp knife along the seam. Fill with any candy mixture after giving the mould a greasing with butter. In a few minutes it will be ready to un mould. These will delight the small children.

Keep cross, mint, parsley or any of the green herbs, after washing well, in a mason jar. Seal and set in the ice box or in a cool place. They will keep fresh and crisp for a week.

The old fruit jar rubbers together in the form of a mat to use in the sink to save the scratching of the enamel when using the dish pan. These mats may be used (made smaller) for supporting dishes on ice.

Cream of tartar and a soft brush with water will clean filigree jewelry.

When making a layer cake with a soft filling, to keep the layers from sliding stick tooth picks through the layers to hold them in place until the icing is set.

A pair of dry pillows for the bed will always keep the bed fresh and attractive looking.

Save all canned fruit juice for pudding sauce and all sirups from spiced or pickled peaches or pears to add to the mince meat when making the pie.

For a quick salad dressing beat up any eggs left over—either whites or yolks as many or few as one has—add equal quantities of mild vinegar and cook until thick. Add such seasonings as is desired for the salad to be made, thinning with a little cream when mixing.

I Spent a $100,000

To find these ways to youth and beauty
By Edna Wallace Hopper

My mother was rich and ambitious. She went with me to search the world for the greatest beauty helps in existence. They cost us a fortune and many years of time. But they made me a famous beauty. I became the rage. And now, they keep me a beauty still.

I have seen those same helps bring to many plain girls multiplied attractions. To some they brought careers of beauty. I have seen them bring to countless women decades of added youth. So now I have placed these matchless helps at every woman's call. And I am doing my best to urge women to employ them.

You need but four
I found 32 great beauty helps. But French experts combined them in four preparations. So these results came very easy to me.

One is super-clay. Not like the crude and muddy clays you read about today. This clay is white, refined and dainty. It has been perfected by 20 years of scientific study. I call it my White Youth Clay. Before I found it I never knew one-tenth what clay could do.

Clay is a beauty essential. It purges the skin of all that clogs or mars it. It creates a rosy glow. It firms the skin, combats all lines and wrinkles, reduces enlarged pores. It has brought to millions new complexions. But my White Youth Clay vastly exceeds the old types. The cost is 50 cents and $1.

My Youth Cream

My Youth Cream combines products of both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best French experts know to foster the fine texture of the skin.

I use it after the clay. Also as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. I am never without it, to whiten, soften, food and smooth the skin. I have never known another cold cream to bring comparable results. My Youth Cream costs 60 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which does what nothing else can do. The greatest beauty experts now employ this formula, but they charge for it a price which few can pay.

My wonderful hair
Millions of women envy my hair. It is thick, silky and luxuriant. I have never had dandruff or falling hair, never a touch of gray.

The reason lies in my Hair Youth. I apply it daily with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It removes the hardened oil and dandruff which stifles the hair roots. It stimulates and fertilizes. You will be amazed to see how hair thrives when the scalp is kept in shape.

My Hair Youth costs 50 cents and $1 with eye dropper. The results come quickly. I hope you will learn what it means to your hair.

To those four products I owe my beauty and my youth. Now all druggists and toilet counters supply them to all who want like results. For the sake of all you prize most, go learn what they can do. Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago

THE TUNIC AND THE COSTUME CITY.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The type of costume sketched is more and more general in its adoption. Instead of being sleeveless, the average three-piece costume boasts of sleeves. It is the tunic idea which registers. The tunic may be a tunic in actuality instead of in name only, and be apart from the underdress, but more often it is simulated, the contrasting material from below the knee producing a similar effect.

The combination sketched is black satin plus a deep ecru eyelid embroidery over black. The coat is untrimmed and experience teaches that when not trimmed with fur, the average coat is worn with a fox scarf. Curiously enough at the time of the year when one might have worn a fur in comfort, scarfs were of silk rather than fur, nine times out of ten. Silk scarfs persist, but foxes have made a remarkable record and have all but caught up with them in the more limited circles in which the richest move.

The three-piece costume in two-pieces only, as is its logical way, often consists of a black satin coat and skirt, the upper section being white chiffon or crepe. Black and white is another detail of spring costume which has been seized upon by an extraordinary number of people instead of the usual discriminating few, so that one sees perhaps less of it than formerly in the best-dressed circles. Quantities of black by day and quantities of white by night, but fewer combinations of the two.

Among the most interesting shoe features reported from abroad is the return to oxfords. Instead of the sturdy types which are difficult to reconcile with the present mode, oxfords have been turned out in a frivolous vein, in combinations of various leathers, as, for instance, black and white. There are also colored oxfords for those whose preference for colored footwear argues that they will be appreciative of a new type of shoe which will preclude any idea that one is wearing last year's shoes.

While footwear has not reverted to sensible types and still remains rather ornate, there is a noticeable lessening of extreme cuts, fewer complications in straps and less exposure of the foot. Combinations of patent and genuine leather are proving almost as popular for shoes as contrasting dull and glaze materials have been for millinery. In fact both extremes have something in common—for both make use of buckles. There are a few of the newer shoes have a bow instead of buckled strap. Other types have huge ornamental buckles.

THE WHY, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS.

The Walking Stick.

One at a time, the reasons for carrying various articles have undergone a considerable change. The stick was first carried as a weapon of defense. Later, when the economical custom of putting old people out of the way was discarded, it became a support in old age, as the ancient riddle of the sphinx shows. The riddle referred to an animal which walked on four legs in the morning, on two at noon, and on three in the evening. The animal represented man, walking with the aid of a stick at the eventide of life. Still later, the stick became the symbol of authority.

As in many other instances, fashion also took the stick in hand. A little more than 200 years ago, fashionable women in France began to find pleasure in the so-called pastoral plays. They dressed as they thought society shepherdesses should dress—that is, in wide panier skirts of finest silk, tall hats, high heels, and the rest of that period's ruyes. To indicate their purpose, they also carried shepherd's crooks with ribbon bows and elaborate ornaments. Sticks are distinctly European in character, inasmuch as no man who wants to make an impression can be seen on the streets without them. Recently the better class of stores have begun to show sticks for women in this country, although the conditions which forced the XVIII century women to carry them, do not prevail. The modern sticks are to match some part of the toilette, perhaps the color of the dress, the handbag or some other accessory.

Frosting Glass.

Dissolve as much epsom salts as water will take up and apply to the glass; or dab the glass over with flour paste, using a brush. More permanent methods are to dab on thin white paint, using a brush. Better than this is the use of putty tied tightly into a bit of muslin. Put this over the glass and the putty will exude sufficiently through the muslin to make the stain opaque. Let dry hard, then varnish.—Housewife.

STATE PARKS GROW RAPIDLY IN FAVOR

"A Park Every Hundred Miles" Is National Slogan.

Washington, D. C.—"City parks and national parks are well enough known; new enters the state park, which, in popularity, bids fair to rival its older park sisters," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The forthcoming national conference on state parks, at Gettysburg, Pa., will emphasize the rapidly multiplying uses of these state reservations," the bulletin points out.

"Many visitors are expected to attend the conference, both because of the varied program touching upon so many phases of outdoor life, and also because the conference is meeting at one of the most famous battlefields of modern times, notable for its memorials to the men of both the North and the South who fell there, and also for the scenic beauty of the panorama of knolls and hillside that form the Gettysburg state reservation.

"Arrangements for the meetings are being made by John Barton Payne, chairman of the conference on state parks, whose headquarters are at the National Red Cross building, in Washington, D. C.

"A Park Every One Hundred Miles."

"The rapid growth of these parks makes the slogan 'a park every hundred miles' seem not so impossible as it sounds. Twenty-six states now have their own park systems, and these parks range from the vast Adirondack park, in New York state, with more than three million acres, to the one-acre sand bar in the Connecticut river, which is Dart Island State park, of Connecticut.

"Michigan leads all the states in the number of its state-owned parks, with thirty such reservations. Connecticut, though one of the smallest states, is second, with twenty-five parks.

"Then comes New York, with twenty-two parks; Minnesota, with seventeen; Pennsylvania, with fourteen; while Iowa, with its thirteen reservations, to which it invites tourists to repair from prairie land to fairyland, is the leader of the state park movement in the Middle West.

"Havens for the tourist are afforded in increasing numbers of the state parks; some of them offer camping places for the entire vacation period. In Wisconsin the city dweller can rent an island for a nominal sum, and play Swiss Family Robinson for several weeks.

"Many of the best known state parks embody world renowned scenic features—notably Niagara falls, New York. They furnish a panorama of varied physical features our country possesses—from the curiously modeled gorges of Mashamquet Brook State park, of Connecticut, to the tropical setting of the Royal Palm State park, of Florida, less than fifty miles southwest of Miami.

"Historic and literary shrines are preserved, as in Lincoln's home, in the Old Salem State park, of Illinois, and in James Whitcomb Riley's 'old swimmer's hole' on an Indiana reservation. Indiana also preserves in some of her parks her magnificent waterfalls, which fact may be an item of news to many travelers whose knowledge of her geography is confined to car-window observations on transcontinental trips.

When Illinois Was Under Ocean.

"Starved Rock park, in Illinois, perpetuates far older history than that to be found in textbooks—its limestone formations date back to a period when America's inland was the floor of a sea.

"Tropical jungle, the giant redwood trees of California, the sand dunes of Indiana, waterfalls, lovers' lanes, the jeweled lakes of Minnesota, the mountain outlooks of Connecticut—these are a few of the wonder spots which states have set aside for the use of all their people and as a heritage for their children.

"If you take Noah Webster's word for it, a park used to be 'an enclosed place of ground stocked with beasts of the chase, held by prescription or the king's grant.' The idea of the state parks conference seems to be that today a park is 'an unenclosed place of ground stocked with beasts, trees, flowers, or other scenic features, not to be destroyed, but held by prescription of the people for their own use.'

"The annual conference this year to be held during the last week of May at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, will consider the development of the many uses of these state parks.

"Their value as game refuges, for camping and nature study, extension of trails for hiking, establishments of more museums for preserving specimens, and their wider use in scientific study will be considered.

"Each year finds new state recruits in the movement for state park systems. In Kentucky the legislature has just passed a measure creating a state park commission. Three proposed sites for parks in the Blue Grass state are the place near Bardonia, where Stephen Foster wrote 'My Old Kentucky Home,' the place of Lincoln's birth, near Hodgenville, and Mammoth cave."

WHAT KINGSTON BUILDS— BUILDS KINGSTON!

A New Hotel Will Bring New Industries To Kingston!

Building a Community Hotel of the type proposed for Kingston will be of great assistance in bringing new industries to our city.

The new Hotel will be an industry in itself, employing quite a number of persons; it will mean putting into circulation among our own banks, business houses and individual citizens, thousands of dollars annually that would otherwise, and are at the present time, going to other cities.

Our railroad and water facilities, our splendid farming lands and beautiful mountains and our geographical location will make Kingston an ideal industrial and tourist center. However, more industries than we now have will locate in Kingston when we show that we have sufficient public spirit to build for ourselves so important a community enterprise as this new and modern hotel will be.

This is not mere "selling talk." To quote from a disinterested citizen in another community concerning the civic benefits derived as a direct result of their community hotel, he says: "Our New Hotel is one of the strongest drawing cards that our city holds. It gives an atmosphere of tone, finish and pulling power which has meant much to our city in securing and holding additional industries and investments."

And this extract from a letter received from the Michigan City, Indiana, Chamber of Commerce, shows what a new hotel similarly financed has meant to that progressive city: "Our New Hotel best investment citizens ever made for promoting welfare of community. Outsiders would not build hotel so local campaign raised close to half a million dollars for eight story hotel. Opened in 1923. Successful from start. We placed new contracts yesterday for two additional floors in order to take care of greater business hotel has developed for our community. Previous to New Hotel we could never handle conventions. This year already have twenty conventions including National Convention. More in prospect. Hundreds of tourists and traveling men now stay here over night—previously passed us by. Numerous other benefits hotel responsible for. The greatest asset any city can have is an up-to-date modern hotel."

Getting back to Kingston, the man who buys stock in this, the biggest of all community enterprises, is the most substantial kind of booster the city can have. Be a Booster!

Fathers of Triplets Report to White House

The White House files, according to those who keep them, contain what must be a good census of the triplets born in the United States. When this extraordinary event takes place in a family, frequently the proud—or astonished and bewildered—father sits down and writes to headquarters about it.

Letters of this kind became the custom during the administration of President Roosevelt, because of his advocacy of large families. In this time there was a story, probably apocryphal, that went the rounds, writes James C. Derieux in the American Magazine. A man notified the President that triplets had been born in his house, and in answer Mr. Roosevelt was said to have sent a loving cup. But the man knew that a cup of this nature is not, as a rule, permanently in the possession of anyone who won it but one time. So he wrote back to ask: "Is the cup mine outright, or do I have to win it three times?"

While Mr. Harding was President he received, among other triplet announcements, one which told of two boys and a girl having been born all at once. The boys were named Warren and Harding and the girl was christened Florence, in honor of Mrs. Harding. That family received a fine letter from the White House!

Twins, also, are frequently reported to the White House, and the chief executive hears of large families, too. The largest family reported recently had 19 children.

Another quaint custom is to tell the president of the men and women who live to be one hundred years old. The relatives of centenarians often write to ask that the president send a letter of congratulations, and generally the president does. Not long before President Harding died he wrote a letter to a man who was one hundred and one, and who was a veteran of the Mexican war of 1916. In reply the old gentleman received a letter from the White House, and the chief executive hears of large families, too. The largest family reported recently had 19 children.

Famed as Fighters

A famous Confederate body of independent fighters known as Mosby's Partisan rangers, was a terror to the Union troops during the Civil war, doing much damage in cutting off means of communication and destroying supply trains, capturing outposts, etc.

There was a guerrilla style of warfare, says the Detroit News. Subsequently Mosby's force was pressed into the regular Confederate army. The men were dispersed and concealed when not engaged in raiding and Mosby had in force a perfect system of reassembling them on the shortest notice.

Probably his most brilliant exploit was the capture of Brigadier General Stoughton, United States army, at Fairfax courthouse in 1863. To accomplish this he made a raid inside the Federal lines. One of his most important raids resulted in the capture of Sheridan's entire supply train.

Mosby became a Republican after the war, and supported General Grant for the presidency. He is said to have originated the phrase, "The solid South."

Beat at Her Own Game

Robert LaFollette Smith, of Georgetown, Ind., is an eight-year-old boy with a vivid imagination. His mother often takes advantage of that fact when she wishes him to obey.

One morning he was too slow in getting ready for school, so his mother said: "Robert, you are getting ready to meet the morning train and it is almost due! Hurry, or you will miss it!" As was expected, he immediately began to make that train and Mrs. Smith was congratulating herself for having solved a difficult problem when Robert suddenly lapsed into the old habit.

"Robert, you'll miss that train, sure!" she exclaimed with much concern.

"No, mother," was the young hopeful's reply. "I have just heard that my train is an hour late!"—Indianapolis News.

Oldest Medical Book

The Edwin Smith papyrus, the oldest medical book in the world, is in process of translation. This valuable document, now in the possession of the New York Historical society, lay for ages in the coffin of an Egyptian physician.

It contains prescriptions and clinical reports and also notes from a still older book, "The Book of Surgery and External Medicine."

Some of the prescriptions, says M. B. Levick in the Mentor, are veterinary. Among the ingredients mentioned are the rose, the lotus, goose fat and some drugs used by pharmacists today, including magnesia and iron.

Anne and Airplane

Four-year-old Anne has only seen an airplane when it has been high in the air. A few days ago she was persistently watching one as it soared far above her, when she remarked: "I wish God would come down and take me for a ride."

Gas Piped Long Distance

Twenty-five years ago the city of Toledo, O., obtained its natural gas from points within a radius of about thirty-five miles. Now, the nearby wells having become exhausted, the supply is piped from West Virginia, a distance of 100 miles.

Memorial Sunday Service for All

On Sunday evening, May 25, a memorial service will be held in St. James's M. E. Church at 8 o'clock. Pratt Post, 127, G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, Kingston Post, 150, American Legion, Ladies' Auxiliary, American Legion, Tappan Camp, Sons of Veterans and Ladies' Auxiliary, Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., Boy and Girl Scouts and patriotic societies will be present.

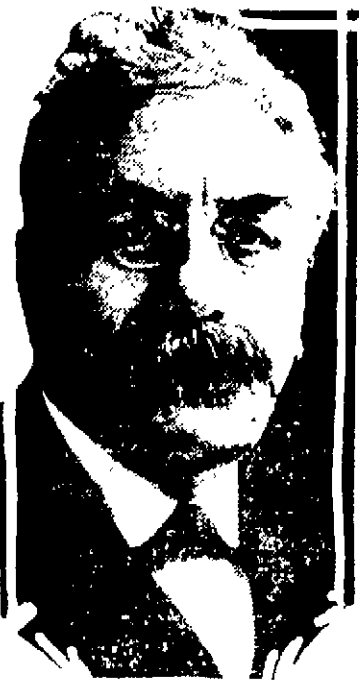

All patriotic organizations are most cordially invited to join on this occasion. A fine musical program has been arranged with a memorial address by the Rev. J. Wilbur Teller. The Rev. Father Roger B. T. Anderson, chaplain of Kingston Post, World War Veterans, will give Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Kingston Post will bring their colors and guard. Irving Wood will sound the call to the colors, also the taps.

This will be an interesting service in which all creeds can heartily join. Organizations and societies will assemble at the church in Pearl street at 7:30 o'clock, when they will be assigned to their position in column. The body will move in the church promptly at 7:50 o'clock.

Organizations are requested to communicate, either by letter or phone, about how many they expect to muster so the proper number of seats may be reserved. Should the weather be inclement, societies will assemble in the church parlors.

It is earnestly desired that every veteran will make a strenuous effort to be present; if unable to walk, automobiles will be provided. Arrangements are under direction of Post Commander Silas Brink, 55 St. James street. Tel. 207-M.

If you like a man, you explain away to him the faults he admits.

Any old man is content if his ache has moved to a new place each day.

Praise of a man is like a rolling snowball. It gathers praise as it rolls.

A man cherishes through life the times when he has been openly spoken of as smart.

Should every man set forth to reform himself, there would be no salaries for the reformers.

You notice that the men who are not afraid do not come to grief any oftener than those who are.

Not rarely men trace back the beginning of their fortune to the time they were out of one job and looking for another.

You pay a man a borrowed dollar owed him for a month and he says he had forgotten all about it. That's kindness, not hypocrisy.

SCIENCE EXPECTS TO CONQUER INSANITY

Finds Way to Rejuvenate Mankind by Treatment.

Washington.—Science is approaching mastery over insanity, old-age and other ills through study of the endocrine glands and discovery of means of their control, Dr. William J. A. Bailey of New York declared in a paper at a session of the American Chemical society.

Describing development of basic knowledge about endocrine radiation with the gamma ray as being of transcending importance to the human race, Doctor Bailey, who is director of the American Endocrine laboratories, declared "we have cornered aberration, disease, old age and, in fact, life and death themselves in the endocrines."

"If we look more to the endocrine glands and less to the head," he said, "we have an excellent chance of eradicating insanity."

"In and around these glands," he added, "must center future efforts toward human rejuvenation, a goal for which the world has sought and one which now seems to be truly realized."

Study of the principles involved in endocrine ionization, said Doctor Bailey, has placed science on the threshold of a new era.

"We have too long regarded insanity as purely a brain condition," he declared. "Its seat is unquestionably in the endocrine glands, which absolutely control every brain function."

"No greater truth has been vouchsafed to mankind than that these lowly masses of colloidal ooze regulate all body activity, down to the tiniest cell. I am satisfied, from clinical experience, that a method of endocrine ionization is now available whereby we can definitely, practically without exception, retard the progress of senescence and give a new lease of relatively normal functioning power to those whose sun of life is slowly sinking into the purple shadows of that longest night."

"Rejuvenation means more today than any other subject that can concern a man or woman. The wrinkled face, the drawn skin, the dull eye, the listless gait, the faulty memory, the aching body, the destructive effects of sterility, all spell imperfect endocrine performance."

Beauty Expert Passes Up Models to Wed Cook

New York.—This is a romance for nice girls to read—girls who have passed the age of twenty-five and are capable and independent and a bit wistful about life; nice, plain girls who sometimes wonder if it wouldn't be more exciting to be beautiful and dumb.

It is the romance of J. R. Bolton, fashion expert of the Retail Millinery association, and Miss Ethel Helen Gough, housekeeper.

To start at the beginning, for years J. R. Bolton had done fashion shows. He has been a connoisseur of feminine lines, lovely, alluring lines, from the days when the thirty-six was "perfect" to the present ascendancy of the thirty-four. But J. R. Bolton remained a bachelor.

Two years ago Miss Ethel Helen Gough, just over from London, became housekeeper of J. R. Bolton's little apartment. Miss Gough reaches the third button on Mr. Bolton's vest, wears a No. 2A shoe, is bobbed-haired and soft-eyed, but would never get a job as a model.

But what perfectly wonderful eight-course dinners she concocted in the kitchenette and served to the jolly members of J. R. Bolton's own private informal "Napkin Ring club."

This went on for two years. The other day Miss Gough and Mr. Bolton were married.

"Life Atom" Discovery Finds "Pep" in Orange

New York.—Prof. Calvin S. Page used an orange in his lecture on Rx, the life atom which he discovered in 1889. The lecture was delivered before about 100 persons, most of them instructors or students, in the hall of the Engineering Societies building, 29 West Thirty-ninth street.

Rx is an element which combines with everything except itself. He himself has isolated an atom of it and weighed it, but ordinarily it can be measured only by its effects on something else.

Owing to its virtually universal affinity, it is found everywhere. It is Rx that enables a person in good health to wiggle his fingers in a masterful way when he seeks to stop a Fifth avenue bus. It is Rx which enables him to see and hear. If it was not for Rx, he would be a clod or a statue. Rx is the vital atom.

Find Ailanthus Tree Makes Splendid Pulp

Madison, Wis.—Officials of the United States forest products laboratory here announce discovery of what is declared to be an excellent and valuable pulp wood from the ailanthus tree, otherwise known as the "tree of heaven." A half-cord of ailanthus wood was sent to the laboratory from the Pennsylvania state department of forestry for experimental purposes. Officials declare it developed into a high-grade book paper.

Greater because it's the grandest human story ever told—full of smiles and tears from the heart—full of life, real life, the kind that gets you because you know it so well.

SEDAN AUTOMOBILES USED ON RAILROAD

Here is the latest in Sedan automobiles being used on the Southern railroad at Cincinnati, Ohio, to replace the old type of hand-car used for some time. Possibly the laborers, after a hard day with the pick and shovel might resent this intruder with its speed and luxurious ease of interior? Possibly.

SOFT TIRES ARE VERY EXPENSIVE

Proper Inflation Will Give More Miles and Decrease Gasoline Consumption.

By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.

Tires form a very important part of an automobile, this point being brought to our realization when on a beautiful day for motoring we spend an hour or so struggling on a hot road rectifying the wrongs of a badly neglected or badly used tire, involving the loss of a perfectly good temper.

Don't drive your car with tires that are soft or not properly inflated or you will be well started on the road to the trouble with the following results to your tires, and your pocket-book:

Sliding of the tires on the rim when the brakes are applied suddenly, causing the tube to tear around the valve stem.

Tread loosening from the fabric due to arc of bend in transverse direction to arc of circumference.

Tires puncture much easier when not properly inflated.

Tire heating which destroys the valuable chemical elements necessary to both rubber and fabric.

Cracking of the side walls and rim cutting and in some cases pinching of the tube.

When tires are not properly inflated they create a drag and the car is slow to pick up speed or if on the front wheels steering is made harder. The engine has to work much harder, gasoline consumption is greater and many other effects make themselves known.

Turns Out of Course.
Did you ever drive your car along a smooth road with one of the front tires soft? You noticed the car had a tendency to turn off its course in the direction of the side on which the soft tire was. The cause of that is this:

When a tire becomes soft it decreases the overall diameter of the wheel, that is, if the tire becomes soft enough to allow the axle to settle one-fourth inch on one side, you have in reality a wheel that is one-half inch smaller than the wheel on the opposite end of the axle, therefore the smaller wheel must travel faster or turn a greater number of revolutions to travel the same distance as the other, or leave its true course of direction. The other wheel with the tire properly inflated on the other end of the axle, being larger, travels a greater distance in the same number of revolutions, and if not joined to the car it would follow the smaller wheel off its true course and gradually turn in a circle around the smaller wheel, using the latter for an axis around which to rotate. But both wheels being firmly fastened to the car, they are forced to travel in the true course of the car; thus the smaller wheel (or the one with the soft tire) is forced to travel the same distance as the larger one, thus causing more wear on both.

Keep Well Inflated.
So keep your tires well inflated but not over-inflated as one is as bad as the other. Be sure to keep them inflated to the pressure that is specified on the side of the tire by the manufacturer, and you will get more mileage and decrease gasoline consumption and have a smooth running car with less trouble on the road.

Method for Polishing Dull Metal Fittings

After the car is first brought out of its winter storage, the metal fittings are usually dull and tarnished. They may be restored by the following method: First apply a weak solution of wall acid and water to the tarnished surfaces by means of a cloth trapped around a stick. Any acid accumulations are then loosened and may be cleanly removed by sample wiping. After this ordinary metal polish used for brass work should be applied with a linen cloth and the polishing carried out with soft woolen cloths. If the surfaces are slow to respond to the polishing, try a good carriage maker's polish made as follows: Twenty parts of whiting, one part of soda, one-half part of citric acid. This compound is moistened with water for use.

Man Really Worth While.
There is nothing like a steadfast man, one in whom you can have confidence, one who is found at his post, who arrives punctually, and who can be trusted when you rely on him. He is worth his weight in gold.—Charles Wagner.

Driving Economies

Well-inflated tires.
Proper carburetor adjustment.
Brakes in correct working order.

All working parts lubricated to assure smooth running.
Disengage clutch whenever possible and coast.

Obtain sufficient momentum when approaching a heavy grade to carry the car a considerable distance up the grade before changing gears.

Compression Important Detail to Keep Eye On

An important detail to watch, and that which keeps the engine running efficiently is compression. An engine with faulty compression may appear to run fairly well when the car is rolling at a reasonable speed or when it is working hard. Lost compression shows up when the car is being driven at comparatively low speed.

Under either of these conditions the engine will run with an irregularity that makes the car jerk or jump instead of running steadily, as it should. This condition indicates that there is considerable loss of power and that much more gasoline is being burned than when the engine is developing its full power.

Thousands of gallons of gasoline are wasted every day by motorists because of the inefficient operation of their engines. In fact, gasoline mileage may be cut in half through compression loss and still the engine may continue to run fairly well, according to the ideas of the amateur driver.

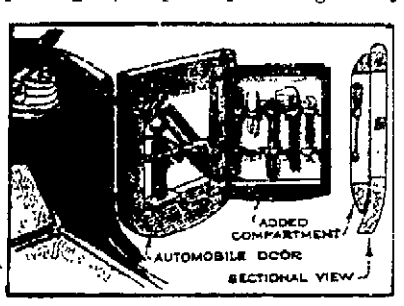

If the engine is not running well and a compression loss is suspected, the easiest way to detect it is to use the crank and turn the engine over by hand, thus feeling the compression in each cylinder. You will nearly always find that some pistons will go over compression much easier than others, and this means that somewhere there is a leak in this cylinder.

The number of miles which a car should run without having the valves reground varies greatly, depending upon oiling and other conditions.

With the average car under normal running conditions it is probably wise to have the valves ground at least once every 5,000 to 7,000 miles, depending upon the running condition of the engine.

Tools Carried in Auto Door are a Convenience

Vacating the rear seat of an automobile so that tools can be obtained from under it is very inconvenient to the passengers, especially during rainy weather.

A Handy Automobile Tool Kit Incorporated With One of the Front Doors to Save Space.

A solution of this problem is to keep the tool kit elsewhere in the car, as for instance on the front door. The inside covering of the door is first removed and a frame, 2 3/4 inches deep, covered with galvanized iron, is hinged to the door as indicated. The combined width of the door and of the additional compartment furnishes sufficient space for the jack, tire pump and other tools. The tools are held in place by means of leather straps, arranged as shown, and a small catch is used to keep the compartment closed.

Automobile Notes

To keep your storage battery in best shape it should be inspected every two weeks.

At any rate, Jesse James never raised a hood and tightened a spark plug and charged $3.65.

Don't count too much on the common sense of the other fellow. No one is 100 per cent alert all the time.

Deficient.

Ethel was trying to teach the neighbor's three-year-old a Mother Goose rhyme, but Don wouldn't respond to her efforts, so in despair Ethel gave it up, saying in disgust: "I guess what's the matter with him he hasn't got any learn."

Four Deaths in Potomac Floods

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, May 14.—Nearly four feet above flood stage and still rising, the swollen Potomac continued today to take a heavy toll of damage as it swept its angry course through nearby Virginia.

It is the worst flood Washington and its environs have suffered in 35 years.

Fifteen houses and cottages above away early today when the Chesapeake and Ohio canal broke through its banks at Foxhall road.

Thus far the loss of life has been small, considering the torrential rush of water. Around Washington there has been none, but outlying sections of Virginia and Maryland have reported a total of four deaths attributable to the waters.

Principal damage in the capital section has been property loss. Both sides of the Potomac below Washington are lined with summer cottages and residences, mostly unoccupied at this season. The fifteen cottages that floated off this morning were unoccupied.

Early today the river at Key Bridge measured 11.5 feet above normal and 3.5 above flood stage.

Observers believed the crest would be reached this afternoon.

Miss Gladys Crow of West Chester street, who underwent an operation last Saturday at the Kingston City Hospital, is improving very nicely.

Indian Tribe Said to Use "Language" of Birds

A tribe of Indians whose members communicate among themselves only by whistling, and who can talk to birds in the same manner, has been found in the Skikyou mountains in northern California. The discovery was reported to A. L. Kroeber, curator of anthropological museum of the University of California, by J. R. Saxon of the United States forest service.

Saxon said that for weeks forest rangers in the remote part of the Skikyou had heard many uncanny whistlings over the service wires that stretch from station to station through the mountains. He went to investigate. He said the Indians conveyed to him that they had seen forest rangers using this instrument and had themselves experimented with it in their whistling language. This explained the mysterious sounds.

Saxon believes that the isolated clan of "whistling people" is an obscure offshoot of the Karok tribe of Elamuth Falls Indians, says the Detroit News. Professor Kroeber says the Karoks are an unusually intelligent and industrious tribe numbering about 2,000. At a whistled command birds would flutter from the trees to a clearing to eat food scattered there by the women, according to Saxon's narrative. He described the men as shy, adding the women were like deer. "At the sound of my voice," he explained, "the women fled into the canyons."

Boy Prisoner's Plea Ingenious, at Least

A youth in the Indiana state prison recently sent a plea to the state board of pardons, in which he said: "I am only a boy of seventeen and don't think I ought to be required to live up to the laws that I never had opportunity to learn what they were in school and it seems as though about nine-tenths of the lawyers of Indiana do not understand them, either."

The boy's letter amused more than it impressed, because the law he was convicted of violating was the law against stealing automobiles.

Under ordinary conditions the youth would be in the Indiana state reformatory, and not in the state prison, where more hardened and older convicts are sent, but the new reformatory is not yet sufficiently completed to house many more than about half of its intended capacity of 1,250 prisoners.—Indianapolis News.

Liner Steers Self

The Cunard liner Latoria is the first British liner to be equipped with a wonderful new invention, by means of which ships of the future will be able to travel hundreds of miles, unaided by a helmsman, without deviating from their intended course. The gyro pilot is controlled by the gyro compass. This compass passes all alterations of the ship's head to other compasses, working in conjunction with the latest wireless direction finders on the bridge and other parts of the ship. One of these repeater compasses is mounted on the gyro pilot, and immediately the ship's head changes its direction the information is passed to an electric motor, which turns the steering wheel the requisite amount to bring the ship back to her course.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Jury of His Peers"

Ed Pendleton, member of the Kansas legislature from Franklin county, was called as a member of the jury recently, in United States court at Leavenworth.

"I never served on a jury of any kind in all my life before," Pendleton explained to his friends, "and I wanted to know if all those jokes about how juries perform were true."

"Well, after serving on a jury," asked a friend, "how would you like to be tried by one?"

"Not for me," replied Pendleton. "I wouldn't want to be tried by a jury—not even if I were a member of it."—Kansas City Star.

Fur Farms in Canada

Fur farming has shown a great increase in Canada during the last ten years that furs have been popular summer and winter. There are 1,000 farms devoted to breeding and raising fur-bearing animals, and of these 900 are devoted to foxes, seventeen to racoon, thirteen to mink and one to martens. The 21,433 silver foxes taken in the 1923 season of these farms are valued at $3,372,262. As Canada became settled the wild animals retreated farther into the north and the farms sprang up with the demand for fur manufacturers.

Gene Sarazen Speaks for Modern Golf Ball

Gene Sarazen, the professional golfer's association champion, in commenting on the proposed new standard golf ball, said recently: "I can't see any reason for making a change; the ball we are using now suits me pretty well. Golfers get greater pleasure out of hitting a long tee shot than they do from any other shot of the game—therefore, why deprive them of that pleasure? However, I doubt if a ball a little larger and a little lighter will make so much difference to the average player; in fact, the 'duffer' will be benefited. The bigger ball will give a larger target to hit and sit up higher on the ground."

BASEBALL CHANGED SINCE OLDEN DAYS

Frank Chance Says Single Score Is Nothing Now.

Frank Leroy Chance, who was compelled to give up the management of the Chicago White Sox on account of ill health, remarked before leaving for the West that baseball had changed greatly since the days of the great Cub machine that he piloted to four pennants and two world's championships. And he spoke a mouthful in a few words.

Chance was in a position to note the vast change because of the fact that he was away from the game for a long period. His last fling before what everybody figured would be his swan song in the majors was with the Yankees in 1914, and from then until he returned to manage the Red Sox in 1923 he was a total stranger to the big time game. During that period pitching went into a decline and hitting became the paramount feature of the national pastime.

Where Chance noticed the difference upon his return a year ago was in the matter of playing for runs. When he and his Cub wreckers were in their prime it usually was a case of getting a one-run lead and holding it. It took real pitchers to do that, but Chance had them in those days.

As the game is played today one run means nothing. A fluke home run over a short fence by a punk hitter can upset a game in the twinkling of an eye. The live ball and the fact that pitchers have been forced to work almost continually with new balls are responsible for this. The result has been high scores, and the sacrifice bunt and the stolen base, which were potent factors in the days of one-run leads, have practically fallen into disrepute.

Another thing Chance noticed about the game of the present against that of the past was the change in the attitude of the athletes. Not all of them, but many. There has gradually crept into the game a tendency to pamper the players instead of dealing with them with the iron fist. Chance naturally would notice this. In his day he was what we now term a hard-boiled disciplinarian.

Whenever Chance and fines are spoken of in the same breath the name of Heinie Zimmerman breaks in on the memory. Heinie was a persistent offender, and Chance was forced to take hundreds of dollars away from him, but the Bronx Dutchman never settled down. Fines didn't bother Heinie because he was one of those rare players who didn't care about money.

Cricket Is Making Much Headway in Canada City

Still they come. Another new cricket club has been formed in Toronto by Canadian General Electric employees, with over 80 members. It shows how popular the game is becoming in Canada. There is to be a cricket week in Toronto this year, beginning July 15. The last two days will be given over to the annual inter-provincial match, Ontario vs. Quebec, and matches with Hamilton district and western Ontario will also be played. At its meeting the Toronto and District Cricket council gave the Toronto Umpires' association a black eye by declining to accede to the request that a fee of $2 per game per man be paid. "In the interest of good cricket," declares E. S. Jackson, the cricket expert, "the decision arrived at by the delegates is to be regretted."

Use of "X" as Signature.
The use of the X as signature of persons unable to write began when kings and nobles used it, whether able to write or not, as a symbol that they pledged themselves by the Christian faith to the truth of the matter to which they affixed it.

K. H. S. Nine At Cornwall

This afternoon the local high school's baseball team journeyed to Cornwall to play the New York Military Academy team. The N. Y. M. A. team beat the locals in five rainy innings here, therefore the locals are determined to win nine sunny innings. The game should be good and exciting as the teams are evenly matched.

Coach Perry has been training the players hard for their games this week and next week. He has announced the following lineup. Flanagan, catcher; McLane, 1b.; Hauser, 2b.; Hoffman, ss.; Messinger, 3b.; Howard, rf.; Schmidt, cf.; Ummerte, lf. Captain "Dick" Whiston is still unable to play owing to an injury received in the Poughkeepsie game. Manager Bailey is negotiating with the Raymond Riordan School for a game on Friday afternoon.

Present Diploma To Babe Ruth

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, May 14.—Babe Ruth Day will be celebrated at the Yankee stadium this afternoon with the first meeting of the season between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Browns. The noted hitter will be presented with a diploma, awarded him last year as the most valuable player in baseball during the 1923 season. Ban Johnson, president of the American League, will take part in the ceremonies.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

Our Babe Ruth crashed out his eighth homer, but it availed the Yankees nothing, Falk going Bambino one better and batting in four runs, giving the White Sox the victory, 7 to 5.

The Giants are still sliding, the Cards taking them into camp for the fourth straight, 8 to 3. It was Bentley's turn to be the goat.

The Athletics made it an even dozen defeats when the Indians swept the series, winning the final, 3 to 2.

Rube Marquard's southpaw slants proved ineffective against the Pirates and the Corsairs scored an easy 5 to 1 victory over the Braves.

Coming from behind in the last two innings, the Reds increased their lead in the race by beating the Phillies, 4 to 3.

The Cubs made only five hits, but crowded four of them into the fourth inning, when they made three runs, defeating the Dodgers, 3 to 1.

Danforth hurled the Browns into second place when he scored his fourth straight victory, winning the final game from the Red Sox, 3 to 3.

The Senators made it two all when the Tigers failed to connect with Mogridge's benders, score 6 to 3.

EBERT TRIES TO CLAMP LID ON CABINET MOUTH

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Berlin, May 14.—President Ebert today clamped down the lid upon the interviews upon government affairs. He issued "rules and regulations" addressed to the cabinet ministers urging them to follow the chancellor's instructions to "cooperate, to be discreet and not to grant interviews concerning foreign policy unless approved by the foreign office."

Explanation of Genius.
All the genius I have lies just in this: When I have a subject in hand, I study it profoundly. Day and night it is before me. I explore it in all its bearings, my mind becomes pervaded with it. Then the effort which I make, the people are pleased to call the fruit of genius. It is the fruit of labor and thought.—Alexander Hamilton.

TOM GIBBONS BEGINS SERIOUS TRAINING.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Grand Haven, Mich., May 14.—Tom Gibbons's serious preliminary punching started by coincidence the day of the arrival of Georges Carpentier in America, continued today as the Frenchman sped westward to make ready for their engagement May 31.

Andre Anderson, Tillie Herman and Abbott were on the receiving end. The last named is a former boxer and owner of the hotel where Gibbons is training to meet Carpentier. Besides the ten rounds of boxing, baseball, golf and hikes have their place on Gibbons's program.

Washout at Glasco.

Supervisor Shults and Town Clerk Weinand of Saugerties were called to Glasco Tuesday morning, the heavy downpour of rain having washed out the roadway on the hill near the former Catholic church property. Superintendent of Highways Harry K. Myer has both trucks at work hauling material and making repairs and he estimates 300 loads of material will be required to fill the depression there.

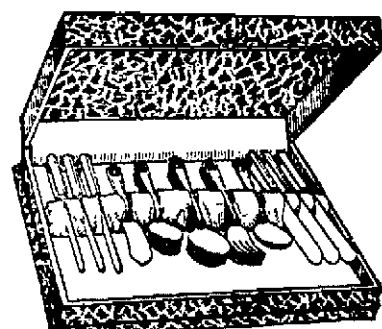

The Site of "Arrowhead."

Who ever built the house, he built it better than he knew, or else Uncle in the zenith flashed down his Danmoe's sword to him some starry night and said, "Build there." For how, otherwise, could it have entered the builder's mind that, upon the clearing being made, such a purple prospect would be his? Nothing less than Greylock, with all his hills about him, like Charlemagne among his peers.—Herman Melville.
